No more faithful, apright, chergetic officer, or trater man, has ever been connected with our police force, and if he will establish a private detective agency in Memphis, to be conducted on the plan of Pinkerton's, of Chicago, he will, no doubt, secure all the business in that line that our citizens may have. We have ind frequent occasion to compliment Cranmer on his work, and take pleasure in again attesting his value as an officer—discreet, brave and determines.

Mason and Jno. Palmer, were at work. Four gins, with the above named amount of cotton-seed, were destroyed, involving a loss of at least five thousand dollars to the company, which has a full insurance. The warehouse and lint-room, which are owned by the city, and said to be insured, were also burnt. Superintendent J. R. Miller was on hand and did everything in his power to prevent the destruction of the more valuable per of the building.

Johnny Booker, who was a minstrel even as far back as ente-bellum days, is the contral figure, and "Interiocutes" in a style poculiar to himself. You are glad and proud, and justly so. Now, won't you help us to crow over 'our county of Mississippi,' in the State of Arkansas, just a little bit? The total valuation of realty and personalty of this county is about one million, eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and our total indebtedness is less than nine thousand dollars, or in other words, we don't owe half as much as you do on every dollar of valuation. The January number of the Technologist or Industrial publication company, 178 Broadway, New York, has reached us, and, as usual, it is filled with valuable and interesting information. The table of contenus gives a list of nearly fifty important articles, not including mere current items of information, of which there are seven or eight columns, of these articles nineteen are illutrated, the illustrations including two full-plage engravings, printed in colors. In looking over its pages, one is struck with the clearness and simplicity which characterize the descriptions of new machines and processes; the earnestness and vigor of the ethiorials, and the spiciness of the news items. Those of our readers who are interested in industrial progress, ought by all means to examine this periodical, which may be obtained of any news-agent, or direct from the publisher. It is the cheapest industrial journal now before the public, the subscription rate being only one dollar and fifty cents per year, or fifteen cents per single number, for a large, thirty-eight-page magazine.

Work is still going on, and the Paducah and Memphis road is still being built—not rapidly, maybe, but surely, at least. Captain T. C. Smith has just finished four miles of grading in Lewis's creek bottom, which is all of the low bottom on the line between here and Newbern, which the winter and spring rains would render it difficult to work up, all the balance of his work being on high ground. He has now moved his force back to the neghborhood of Newbern, and will finish up his work as fast as possible. Child, Stevens & Co. have finished the pilling across the Forked-Deer river bottom, and also across the river, so that in the course of two or three months more the whole of the line from here to Trimble station, a distance of eighteen miles, will be ready fer the from." In spite of the 'panic' the managers have been able to continue the work, and when spring fairly opens it will be pushed forward with renewed energy. Its president, Ex. We make this correction in order to prevent the impression that it was Mr. J. P. Robertson, the very efficient secretary of the Howard association. In the convention of the B'nai B'rith

In the convention of the B'nai B'rith at Chicago yesterday, President Koen presented a handsome gold Maltese cross, inscribed with the emblems of the order, to our well-known citizen. A. E. Frankland, Esq., as a memorial of the devotion and heroism he displayed during the yellow-fever epidemic in Memphis. This expression of esteem is appropriately made to this worthy gentleman, who returned his grateful appreciation in a few remarks, recounting some of the frightful scenes witnessed during the epidemic. Mr. Adolph Loeb, of this city, was elected a vice-president of the order. The selection is a judicious one, and will redound to the further welfare of the order.

Boggs conducting the ceremoules in a most graceful manner, in the presence of a number of select friends of the parties. After receiving the congratulations of their friends, the newly wedded couple repaired to the residence of the bride's father on Shelby sirect, where many of the friends of the family were assembled, and right merrily spect the hours amid the flow of wine, wit, and other good things. May the portais of love and happiness be ever open to them as they journey through life, bounteons smiles of prosperity crown their efforts, and may they be blessed with a happy realization of all their anticipations is the sincere wish of numerous friends.

DIRECT TRADE.

Proposition for the Establishment of a Shipping Company-Suggestions for Merchants.

By permission of Mr. Bayliss, we are enabled to publish another letter from Mr. Varreny, of Faris, upon the subject of direct trade, to which we call the especial attention of the merchants of our city. It is as follows: Paris, December 28, 1873. B. Bayliss, Esq., Memphis:

DRAR SUR— * 1 have also seen with pleasure the high and justly-deserved appreciation of your labor in Europe, published in the Memphis newspapers. I trust you will derive new strength from it, and work with renewed arder to the much-sought-for, but hitherto fruitless, mission of direct trade with Europe. durope.

I need not tell you what is to be done in the natter. The numerous conversations we had Europe.

I need not tell you what is to be done in the matter. The numerous conversations we had on that subject must have edified you as to its feasibility and as to the ultimate benefit that would accrue from it, both for your country and mine. The only thing to be done is to put the ball in motion. Once started, there is no telling what results could be reached.

I have frequently thought of an organization that would draw your cotton direct to Havre, or any other city on the coast of France, instead of drawing it from Liverpool. But to initiate such an organization, I give more vigor to its movement, it would, perhaps, be well to organize something of the same kind at Memphis, Could you not establish a shipping cotton association in your city that would correspond with a receiving cotton association at Paris, and get all the orders from French, and Swirs, and Italian manufacturers? An immense trade could be established in that way. The difficulty would be to find the proper basis to such an association, and to determine exactly the character of the relations binding both the Memphis and Paris associations. First you will find the way by which such relations could be established, so as to create confidence in both places. As to the financial aspect of Memphis and Paris associations. Firest you will find the way by which such rejustions could be established, so as to create confidence in both places. As to the financial aspect of the question, this could easily be settled here; so there is no trouble about money. The Memphis association ought, I think, run the risk equally with the French society as to the results of the operation. What we want here is to buy our cotton cheaper than we do now, and escape the tribute we pay to England. Once the society established, a line of steamers would be created that would go and take the cotton either to New Orleans or to Memphis. Heave entirely to you the merit of fluding a combination by which such an association can be formed on your side. After this is done I will take care. If the combination is good and offers sufficient responsibility to organize one in Paris. The Mississippi Valley society has done nothing yet, either in London or in Paris. Its movements are so slow that they are entirely invisible.

Please send me an invoice pro-forms of one hundred bales of cotton taken in Memphis and delivered at Havre, so that I may show the parties what It would cost in that last city. Yours sincerely,
